DEATH OF PUGILIST.

Peter Jackson, Colored Heavy Weight, Victim of Consumption.

Peter Jackson, the famous colored heavy weight pugilist, died last week in Sydney, Australia. Jackson was a victim of consumption. He was born in Porto Rico, West India, and was 40 years old. He was the greatest colored fighter in the history of the American prize ring. During his stay in this country he met all the top notches, including Jim Jeffries and James J.
Corbett. Corbett and Jackson fought 61 rounds at Frisco on May 21, 1891, the referee's decision being, won contest after a hard fight.
Jackson made several trips around the world, and was one of the best known fighters in the history of the ring.

MRS. KINKADEAD DEAD.

Much Esteemed Lady Passes
Away Near Newstead.

Mrs. Elizabeth H. Kinkadead died last Friday at the residence of her son-in-law, Esq. John W. Mc-Gaughy, near Newstead. She had been in failing health for several years and death was due to infirmities incident to old age.

She was 84 years old and had been a member of the Christian church for more than half a century. Deceased was a sister of the late W. F. Cox, formerly of Newstead.
Services were conducted Saturday by Rev. J. C. Tate, of the Presbyterian church Saturday morning and the interment took place in the family burying ground.

George W. Sulzer, a prominent attorney of Mayville, is dead.

GOOD ONE AT LAST.

Hopkinsville Caught a Gully-
Washer Sunday.

Best Rain For Nearly Three Months--Soaks the Earth and Revives Vegetation.

At last Hopkinsville has occupied a coveted position underneath one of the rain clouds that have been emptying themselves in this section
since the drouth was broken.

During the entire month of July only one little shower fell, amounting to .55 of an inch. On August 5 a better shower came, but it hardly did more than settle the dust for a couple of days. But Sunday afternoon we got the best rain for months. It rained hard for 35 minutes, the fall amounting to 1 1/4 inches. The thirsty earth was thoroughly soaked and the drouth is happily ended. If the rain was general, it means a great deal to the crops of the county.
Late corn can yet be saved and the pastures will be revived.

The blessing came late but "better late than never."

WOMAN KILLED.

By a "Flying Dutchman" at the Madisonville Fair.

Madisonville, Ky., Aug. 10.—A woman was killed yesterday at the Madisonville fair grounds by a
"Flying Dutchman" striking her.
Her name could not be learned.

The woman had just stepped from the machine after taking a ride and was waiting to see it move again.
She did not know that she was in the way and when the machine began to move it struck her a terrible blow, knocking her several feet away. She was carried to a tent
where she died in a few minutes.

A few minutes later the Ferris wheel on the grounds became uncontrollable and ran several rounds at a terrific rate. A seat fell on the head of a woman who was standing near and knocked her senseless.
She recovered after some time.
When the machine was finally stopped it left a car full of people in the air. They had to remain there for two hours before they could be rescued. When taken from the car the women who were in the car were exhausted. The sun was fearfully hot and the excitement was more than the passengers could stand.

MAJ. BASSETT SICK.

Will Not Be Able to Go to Owens-
boro Thursday.

Maj. E. B. Bassett, of the battalion in which Co. D is included, is prostrated with fever and will not be able to go into camp at Owensboro Thursday with his battalion.
He has been threatened with a spell of fever for several days and yesterday was so much worse that it is clear that he will not be able to go. This is a great disappointment to all of the soldier boys, with whom he is very popular. Dr. C.
H. Tandy, formerly Captain of Co.
D, will go as Adjutant.
The company will take the 5:37
train Thursday morning and reach Owensboro at 11 a. m.

She was a daughter of Mr. W. H.
Barr, of this county.

The funeral occurred yesterday afternoon at the family residence
and the interment was at Hopewell Cemetery.
Mrs. Metcalfe leaves one small child.

STEEL STRIKE.

Shaffer Issues General Order to Steel Workers.

Three Big Illinois Mills Vote to Ignore the Strike--Talk
of Settlement.

Pittsburg, Aug. 11.—Accurate figures of the number of men out on strike in the Steel mills cannot be given until Monday, when it is seen how many of them return to work.
They were given their money in all of the mills this evening and there was nothing said about whether they would be back Monday or not.

Excellent order prevails at every point, and the strikers say that so far as they are concerned the mill owners could dispense with watchmen. At Denwood, W. Va., all the men in the skip mill laid down their tools and announced that they would not be back to work Monday.

There is no danger of the strike
at Homestead. After the troubles
there in 1892 all of the union men were weeded out of the mill, and they have not been allowed to return.

There is some talk of settlement,
but it appears that it will not come short of a surrender. The situation to-night seems to favor the strikers, but it is unquestionable that the trust can hold out longer than the men if the stockholders do not get tired.

The work of dismantling the Wood plant at McKeesport goes on.
The reason is the authorities of the towns would not insure protection to the non-union men. The same course will be pursued at Elwood, Anderson and Muncie, Ind.

ILLINOIS PLANTS REFUSE

To Obey the General Strike Order
From Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Aug. 11.—The ironmasters are to-night claiming victory in the great steel strike. They base their claim upon the refusal of the Amalgamated men at South Chicago, Joliet and Bay View to obey the general strike order of President Shaffer, and their success in maintaining operations in other plants where it was anticipated that there would be serious trouble. The strike leaders meet the claim of victory with the assertion that their cause is making satisfactory progress and that they will show themselves masters of the situation before the contest has progressed much further. They do not conceal their disappointment at the refusal of their Western brethren to join with them in the strike,
but none of the leaders would discuss the defection.

Pon Paragraphs.

Pon, Ky., Aug. 8.—Brothers Hyde and McCard have closed their protracted meeting at the arbor on the Johnson's Mill road, near Boyd's school house, last Saturday night.
Thirteen were baptized as a result of the meeting and several others were approved for baptism and the ordination will be administered the Third Sunday in this month.

We had a good rain last Monday and the farmers were all ready for it. Corn is badly damaged in the neighborhood by the drouth and the best farmers estimate that not more than a third of a crop will be made.

Tobacco is looking tolerably well and is being topped. The dry weather caused it to run up with small stalk and short leaf and many farmers think not more than half crop will be housed. The worms are scarcer than ever known before.
Our school commences July 21.
Miss Edith Wood, of Sinking Port, is our teacher. She is an excellent instructor.

Eld. J. W. Gast will assist Bro.
Clark, the pastor, in a protracted meeting at Ford's Chapel, beginning the Second Sunday in this month. HONEY BEE.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT.

Hand Caught in Laundry Machinery and Badly Burned.

Mrs. Veney Phelps, an employee of the Hopkinsville Steam Laundry, got her left hand caught in a mangle and the member was badly crushed and burned. It was at first thought that amputation would be necessary, but it is now believed that the hand can be saved.

Mrs. Phelps had only been employed in the laundry a short while, having come here from Clarksville a few weeks ago.

Few are entirely free from it. It may develop so slowly as to cause little if any disturbance during the whole period of childhood. It may then produce irregularity of the stomach and bowels, dyspepsia, catarrh, and marked tenderness of the complexion before manifesting itself in much cutaneous eruption or ulcerative swelling. Hood's Sarsaparilla
The best of all medicines for all humors.

The news comes from Frankfort by the way of Owensboro, that Inspector Hines will report that he found nothing wrong at the Asylum here. Why this application of whitewash has been delayed three months is the mystery in the affair. The policy of delay from the first, the character of the alleged investigation finally held in stam-chamber, the holding up of the report for a month after it was said to be ready, have all tended to discredit the document in advance. If, as claimed, Judge Hines will take issue with the Board of Commissioners, the grand jury and the public and state that nothing was found to back up the sworn charges, his report will excite only derision and injure himself more than it can help its beneficiaries. The facts are so well known here, and if the Asylum mess is to be covered up, let it be known that it is over the protest of the people, the press and the sworn officers of the institution. The matter is already in the criminal courts in one phase, and can hardly escape the attention of the Legislature five months hence.

Senator McD. Ferguson, of the Paducah district, was re-nominated Saturday by the Democratic Convention at Bardwell, after a hot fight in which his opponents captured the organization of the convention. The opposition, however, could not be united and after one ballot there was a stampede to Ferguson. The convention endorsed Charlie Wheeler's candidacy for Senator.

Perhaps the asylum muddle will now subside. The stench has been covered up with a layer of official asphaltum. Those who try to pass over it, or to pass it over, should tread lightly. The friends of those at fault will, of course, use white-wash freely, but unofficially. It is to be hoped that insanity will not become contagious of the kind we have in "insanity trust." Our insane affairs are bad, but they might be worse.—Owensboro Messenger.

The military encampment at Owensboro is now under command of Adj. Gen. D. K. Murray, who arrived Saturday. There are about 700 members of the Eastern regiment now in camp. They will leave Thursday and the Third regiment, to which the Hopkinsville soldiers boys belong, will take their places for ten days.

The Steel Trust officials certainly have an effective way of dealing with local strikers. When a mill is closed they proceed at once to tear it down and start up an idle mill somewhere else, that has been closed since the Trust gobbled up the little plants a few years ago.

The Breckinridge News carries the Republican county ticket on its editorial page this year and loses an opportunity to say unkind things about Democratic leaders. Bro. Babbage seems to have wound up on the other side.

OFF FOR OLD POINT.
The Seashore Special Will Carry Large Crowd.

The crowd of Old Point excursionists will leave Louisville tomorrow, at 1:30 p. m., for the seashore. Some of the party will leave today over the L. & N. for Louisville and will remain in that city until the departure of the special train, while others will go over the L. & N. tomorrow morning, reaching Louisville one hour before the train leaves over the Chesapeake and Ohio for Old Point Comfort.

There will be probably thirty or forty from this place and Clarksville will also furnish a large delegation. Several from Casky, Pembroke, Trenton, Guthrie, Springfield, Tenn., Russellville and Bowling Green will also go on the trip. Evansville, Owensboro, Henderson, Morgantown, Madisonville, Earlington, Princeton, Uniontown, Paducah, Mayfield, Murray and several other points will also be well represented.

The trip will be made via Shelbyville, Frankfort, Lexington, Winchester and Mt. Sterling and the special is due at Old Point at 3 p. m., Aug. 15. Already there have been many sleeping car reservations made and more space will be secured to-day. The indications are that the coaches will be comfortable filled also.

This is one of the best of all trips that can be taken by people of this section and all who contemplate an outing this summer should avail themselves of this opportunity. The rates are extremely low—$16 for the round trip railroad fare—and the limit of tickets—three weeks—is sufficient for a lengthy stay.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic, got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, took two doses and was entirely cured," says Rev. A. A. Power, of Emporia, Kan. "My neighbor across the street was sick for over a week, he had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called in another doctor, who treated him for some days and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him the next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said, 'No.' I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured. I think it the best medicine I have ever tried." For sale by all druggists.

Will Give Reading.

Miss Downer studied oratory in Boston for four years, and since her graduation has appeared before a number of the most cultivated clubs and societies in the East with great success. Those who have heard Miss Downer assure all who attend of the merit of the evening. There will be music by the best local talent.—Todd County Times.

A ROLL OF HONOR.

One Suggested For Christian County.

An Old And Well Informed Citizen Submits a Plan to Create One.

EDITOR KENTUCKIAN:

Christian County has a most remarkable history in the number of great and distinguished men born in her limits, identified by residence or association with her past, and a plan is now inaugurated to put on record by votes of committees, selected from her representative men, 50 men who have most adorned her annals by the achievements of brains, energy and courage. She leads as the first producing tobacco county in the Union, with a record for wheat, corn and live stock most honorable. In the ante-bellum days at Washington, the Texas order Wigfall facetiously remarked that Kentucky was distinguished for nothing except her horses and jacks. Our representative, Jackson, presented the remark and a duel was just averted. It is proposed that Editors Meacham, Underwood, Braasler and Monroe constitute an executive committee, that these appoint 10 committees of 3, one from each magisterial district, and these committees shall vote each for 50 names of her most distinguished citizens. The vote shall be by classes, 5 for the farmers, 5 for the ministers, 5 for bankers, merchants and manufacturers, 5 for physicians and dentists, 5 for her lawyers and judges, 5 for her officers and the other 20 votes for her most eminent citizens without reference to classes. The executive committee to count votes, decide where two are tied, and that brief sketches be published of all the parties thus selected. The names of the 25 receiving the next highest number, may be published under the title "honorable mention."

Some names are suggested: Jefferson Davis, distinguished officer, National Representative, President of S. Confederacy.

Benj. Brantow, Gen. in U. S. A. Sec. of Treasury, Attorney General.

Gen. J. Jackson, Representative, U. S. officer.

Judge Henry Suites, Atty., and Judge of Court Common Pleas, Louisville, Ky.

DO YOU GET UP

WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Klinger's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century, discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Klinger, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, uric acid troubles and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Klinger's Swamp-Root is not recommended for anything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless poor and in cases where relief has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble.

When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper, and send your address to Dr. Klinger & Co., Birmingham, N. Y.

Regular fifty cent and dollar sizes are sold by all good druggists.

J. W. Rust, a poor boy, when a teacher of primary schools, study ahead of his scholars, was rejected as a teacher in the log school house and lived to graduate children of same examiners in Bethel Female College. Few men accomplished so much.

Peter Cartwright, who lived near the Asylum and helped build up the Methodist church here; who said a distinguished Baptist Prof and Preacher, "was a man who, could do more in a day, than half a dozen of our educated preachers could accomplish in a week."

John P. Campoll, Sr., Livingston Leavell, Isaac Garrett, Chiles P. Barker, Wm. T. Radford, and others noted for number of acres of the finest farming lands, "Wheat Kings" etc.

We have manufacturing enterprises not equaled in the state outside of Louisville. Brains not always educated but will and the "dare to do" have made these records and our Roll of Honor, which marks a part of our century's progress. If these records shall be printed and preserved for our school boys, the next century will be more resplendent in its roll of honor, because of greater opportunities, but not on account of greater pluck and push than marked the 19th century.

HE PREFERS DEATH.

Convict Who Refuses to Bring Disgrace on His Family Name.

"I know of many cases where men have preferred death by suicide to disgrace for themselves and pain and mortification for their families, but I have always held, and always will believe, men who commit suicide under these circumstances are moral cowards," said the man who is interested in criminology, to a New Orleans Times-Democrat writer. "At first I thought it might appear that it requires nerve for a man to pull the trigger of a pistol that is placed at his head, or to swallow the poison that is to end life. But it is the fear of the life before him—the cowardly fear—that nerves a man to the point of desperation at which he takes his life. It is generally held that the suicide is in at least a state of temporary aberration of mind at the time he takes his life, no matter what might have been his mental condition an hour before. Of course, suicide to save wife and children disgrace always brings more disgrace upon them, for invariably the cause is brought out by the self-inflicted death. The wife and children who are left behind are invariably disgraced far more by the crime and suicide than they would have been had the husband and father been brave enough to have lived to atone for wrong, because the finger of the world is invariably pointed at the widow and children of a suicide. But sometimes it requires a brave man to die to save his family name or to prevent a taint from his misdeeds being put upon it in the eyes of the world. But if a man who does this is brave, how much braver must be the man who is standing under the shadow of the gallows? This man knows he must walk upon the scaffold, face a morbidly curious or flippant and even ribald crowd, feel the touch of the rough rope about his neck and take a jump through space that the life might be choked out of him simply because he prefers even ignoble death of this kind to the mortification caused his family should they know he had been sentenced to hang. Yet there is a man in jail at Birmingham, Ala., who is to die on the scaffold this month, to pay his life for the life he took, and who, by calling upon his family and friends, might at least escape the gallows. The condemned man is a German, and he was tried and convicted for murder under the name of Miller. Now it is developed that Miller is but an assumed name. The doomed man is educated, apparently from a high station in life, is well read and widely traveled, is well addicted to drink, and drank at the bottom of the outrageous murder he committed. The German consul at Mobile has been trying to save the life of the man, but Miller will not help him by revealing the name and address of his family. Without his true name and family address the German consul declares he will not advance the fact of Miller's German citizenship. Miller declares he will never reveal who he is to the shame of his family, and that he prefers to die even on the gallows to doing what would cause his family to bow their heads in sorrow and shame. And he is so persistent in his refusal to reveal his identity, even with his death day so close at hand, that the consul has given him up. That is what I call a brave man."

A QUEER OCCUPATION.

Women in New York Earn Good Salaries as Jewel Caretakers.

Never trust your jewels to anyone but a professional caretaker—that is, if you have never thousands of dollars worth of them. Otherwise it doesn't do much matter.

To keep a variety of jewels beautiful and safe in their settings requires considerable experience. There are several women in New York, says the Herald, who earn good incomes among the wives of millionaires by taking care of their jewels.

During the season the caretaker makes a round of jewel boxes once a week. She carries cleaning appliances with her and will often spend several hours over a single collection. She directs what kind of care shall be used for them, in what part of the house they are to be kept, and similar details. Caretakers are, of course, heavily insured, and their compensation is correspondingly large.

Before the caretaker even touches the jewels she fastens a long apron of chambray skin about her waist. Many gowns are only handled with gloves.

One of the first duties of the caretaker is to see that jewels are protected by proper cases. The elaborate velvet and satin-lined cases in general use are discarded. The jewels should be wrapped in jewelers' tissue paper, packed in wool and laid away in airtight compartments. Jewels are affected seriously by the fumes from furnaces, sewer gas, moisture and frequently by sea air.

The jewels are tested with a sharp instrument to find if their settings are secure. The jewels looked after by one of these caretakers never drop from their settings at unexpected moments. Throughout these examinations the caretaker uses a powerful magnifying glass. The gold or silver mountings are then thoroughly cleaned with jewelers' rouge, dried and polished. Any accumulations of dust, grease or soap on the stones are carefully removed with the aid of a very fine camel's-hair brush. They are then dipped alternately in soapsuds and cologne until thoroughly cleaned.

The colors of many gems are affected by water or cleansing fluids. In the case of the turquoise the only safe fluid is alcohol mixed with whiting. Turquoise is frequently discolored by the use of water. The caretaker corrects this by soaking them in stale beer to restore the pure azure tone.

Emeralds require very delicate treatment, as do most green stones. They are cleaned by being buried in absorbent cotton saturated with alcohol. They are never rubbed, but are allowed to remain in this bath until all the alcohol has evaporated.

Pearls are cleaned with naphtha and chloroform. They should only be rubbed with the hand. The heat of human flesh keeps them in good condition. About once a year pearls should be given a special treatment to keep their skins in good condition. To do this the cleanser lays them in a cup of warm wheat flour or lukewarm fresh milk.

The caretakers are excellent judges of the value of stones, and their services are frequently in demand when new jewels are to be bought.

FOUR BEARS AT A SHOT.

A Huntsman's Remarkable Luck Up in the Maine Woods.

About seven years ago Mr. Withee was presented with two fine hounds, and wishing to try their training and their grit he took them out to do a little bear hunting, says the Maine Woods.

The first morning Withee let the dogs out for a run while he was getting the breakfast, expecting them to be back in a short time. When breakfast was over the dogs had not returned, so taking his gun Mr. Withee started out in the direction they had taken. After traveling about a mile the faint barking of dogs could be heard and it was then plain why the dogs had not returned. They had scented game and were in pursuit. The sound of the barking led him far up the side of a mountain when he came in sight of the dogs standing around the upturned roots of a tree.

Mr. Withee crept up cautiously until within about 15 feet of a cave that was near by and then a black, sluggish head could be seen just above the roots. Taking good aim, he fired his 44-caliber and awaited results. After several minutes he went up to the cave, and what he saw there gave him a shock from which he has never recovered. Two bears lay dead and two more were so stunned that a few quick passes with a knife settled them.

For the four bears Mr. Withee received $20 bounty, $27.50 for their hides and $49 for the bear oil, making $96.50 for one day's hunt.

DRESS IN PARLIAMENT

During Evidence of Growth of Democratic Spirit in England.

There are perhaps few more striking evidences of the growth of the democratic spirit, says London Tit-Bits, than what a well-known politician called the "artificial revolution" in the house of commons.

A quarter of a century ago, well within the parliamentary memory of many of our present legislators, the member who appeared in the house in a tweed suit or without the conventionally respectable suit which had almost been considered beyond the pale of civilization. But more modern and less conservative members have changed all that; and an sartorial eccentricity fails to surprise even the most old-fashioned member.

It is true that in older days there were members, few almost as "black swans" in proportion, who flew in the face of convention and appeared in the house in any but orthodox or seemingly dress. When young Mr. Disraeli made his memorable first appearance in debate it was in a black and blue costume as his sartorial collapse that made him an object of ridicule; for the fellow-faced, black-ringed young Jew, in all the glory of a bottle-green swallow-tail coat, a waistcoat resembling Joseph's coat of many colors and "aggressive inexpressibles," was a strange spectacle in a soberly-attired house with cherished traditions as to dress.

Robert Lowe, the Lord Sherbrooke of later days, went to the opposite sartorial extreme, and used sometimes to appear in the house "in baggy trousers which a dustman would have discarded, often spotted and plastered with mud, dirty boots and a coat older than the century, with two capacious bulging pockets from which he would produce his luncheon of bread and cheese."

It was a little more than 20 years ago that the revolt against conventional attire began, and it is said that Mr. John Martin was pioneer, when he appeared at Westminster in a low-crowned felt hat and a jacket suit, without, however, the courage to show his head covering in the house.

Mr. Cowen was an excellent disciple for no one ever saw him in the orthodox stovepipe hat, and all the traditions in the world could not divorce him from his comfortable, if undistinguished, wide-awake, and the jacket the pockets of which formed such comfortable receptacles for his hands. In these later days the appearance of suits of serge and tweed attract as little attention in the house as they would in any country village street; and even tweed caps, which would have thrown our grandfathers into fits, are by no means unknown.

It is not many summers since the house blossomed into as many colors as a flower garden. The present earl of Selborne (then Lord Wolmer) was the first to startle his fellow legislators by displaying a gorgeous-hued cummerbund. The house had scarcely recovered from the shock when young Mr. Chamberlain appeared in still more startling waist colors; and the rivalry thus begun spread like a plague, until the house literally blazed with all the colors of the rainbow and "a few more of them," as an Irish member said.

After this even the spectacle of an honorable member in kilts or dressed as an Indian rajah would scarcely cause the house to open its eyes in wonder; nor did the sight of a member in all the glory of mayoral robes and chains startle it out of its composure. But, in spite of the license thus permitted to members, the house has its laws regulating dress for certain occasions. For instance, it is the law of centuries that the mover and seconder of the address in reply to the speech from the throne must appear in uniform or court dress; and thus it happens that many strange and gorgeous uniforms, from that of a major of Blackbire militia, upwards or downwards, burst on the view of the house.

If, by any chance, an honorable member is innocent of any claim to uniform of any description, he must don the velvet of court dress; although on one occasion the seconder of the address, a man highly esteemed, who was at one time a working collier, had the courage and good sense to appear in his "best Sunday clothes."

At the state dinners given to members during the session the guests must similarly appear in uniform or have dress, a condition again which many honorable members, to whom court dress and uniforms are unfamiliar as killing have long objected as an unreasonable regulation. In fact, not long ago a petition to the speaker asking him to abolish the restriction was presented.

But the speaker has refused.

legislators are allowed as wide a discretion in dress, as should satisfy the most democratic, it is fitting that the speaker, who presides over the deliberations and who represents the dignity of the house, should be fittingly attired; and thus it is that the speaker, in his knee breeches, silk stockings and buckled shoes, his gown and full-bottomed wig, presents as stately and dignified an appearance to-day as in other centuries, when tweed suits and caps were unknown.

SALT WORKERS OF CADIZ.

Curious Ways of a Strange Class in That City.

A considerable part of the province of Cadiz, Spain, is low, marshy ground, unfit for cultivation. Nevertheless it is turned to good account by being utilized for the production of salt by evaporation. This is one of the most extensive industries and sources of revenue in the province. It gives employment to thousands of workmen and makes Cadiz an important seaport, as more than two-thirds of the 400,000 tons annually produced is exported to foreign lands.

The pans, says the Boston Journal, are dug out in the muddy soil. They vary in size, but are of a uniform depth of ten inches. All the salt produced in the pans is of considerable skill. The soil is muddy and is almost a quicksand. Any person unacquainted with the work setting foot on a salt pan would be drawn down and swallowed up in a very few minutes. The way the salt workers get about this dangerous ground, one leg at a time, barely resting the toes and knee on the mud, is an art in itself.

All the work is done in the most primitive fashion, and it is useless to attempt to introduce innovations. The men will not tolerate new methods. In making sluices for the passage of water from sea to pan and from the larger canals they cannot be induced to use other implements than their toes.

The salt, as it is collected, is piled up into pyramids about 30 feet square at the base and rising to a height of about 50 feet, and for at least 20 miles before reaching Cadiz and traveling by rail the traveler is struck by the sight of hundreds and hundreds of these pyramids wherever the eye can reach. At night the glistering pyramids form a scene of once fantastical and imposing.

The whole of the salt business is in the hands of the salt workers, from the gathering of the salt to the putting of it into the holds of the ships. Dock laborers and harbor men who do all other kinds of loading or unloading are excluded. The salt workers have their own special craft for carrying the salt from the pans to the harbor.

The process of salt loading is curious. The ship's hold is lined with matting, and as soon as a ship is ready to take in salt the craft comes alongside laden down to the gunwale. A sheet of canvas is then put down from the ship's hold to the small craft alongside, and the men, with their special wooden shovels, start throwing up salt. Naturally a ship of 300 to 400 tons in ballast is very high out of the water, and to see the men at work would give one the impression that as much salt fell back as is being thrown up. Nevertheless the ship is laden in an incredibly short time and ready for sea, notwithstanding this primitive and apparently absurd process of loading.

Foreign Colonies in Cities

The so-called foreign population of the larger cities of New York state is increasing rapidly. The new census shows that many of the foreign elements seem to have signaled out a particular city to settle in. In Buffalo, for example, there is a large Polish colony, numbering over 100,000. Rochester has a Russian population large enough to support a Russian newspaper. Auburn has a population of native Englishmen nearly as large as the Russian colony in Rochester. Troy has a large population of Irish-American citizens, while Oswego has a large colony of French-Canadians. Syracuse has more than 1,000 German-born residents. In Jacksonville is the largest Swedish population of any city in the state, apart from New York. It is well known for its colony of Swedes.

Good Roads Train.

The KENTUCKIAN neglected to state at the time the settlement was $500 only, and about $100 more was paid for teams, hauls, etc. About

Can You Afford To?

Can you afford to experiment with unknown and untried brands of Fertilizers, when you can get right here what you know to be good? Soils are of great variety, what suits your farm may not be adapted to your neighbor's. Experimenting may mean the loss of a crop, as well as the amount invested in Fertilizers.
Every farmer knows Armour and Homestead, Eagle and Ox Brand Fertilizers. They are no experiment.
Its Time to Put in Your Order Now if you want it to come forward with shipments for Early Fall

Beloved Citizen Gone.

It is with great regret that we note the passing of one of our most beloved citizens and best business men. He had been suffering all season, and the end was not unexpected, though it was not thought he would leave so soon. Not being able to find the recreation needed at home, he has gone to Lexington so that he will be on hand early for the big Horse Show, Fair and Carnival at that place August 12-17.

Agricultural, Horticultural, Chemical, Biological, Mathematical, Normal School, Classical, Mechanical Engineer, Electrical Engi-

bers more than thirty professors and instructors.

County Appointees receive tuition, room rent in dormitories, fuel and lights, and if they remain ten months, traveling expenses.
The laboratories and museums are large, well equipped, comprehensive and modern.

The last Legislature appropriated $30,000 for a college home for young women and a drill hall and a gymnasium has been provided for men.

Military tactics and science are fully provided for as required by Congress. Graduates from the several courses of study readily find excellent positions and liberal remuneration. The demand is largely in excess of the ability of the college to supply.

Last year the matriculation list was 720.
